Air Dolomiti flies to the 74th International Film Festival of La Biennale di Venezia!

The Italian airline is revisiting great short films from the most highly anticipated festival on the calendar

30 August to 9 September 2017 sees the curtain raised on the 74th International Film Festival of La Biennale di Venezia. The Lufthansa Group's Italian airline Air Dolomiti is an official sponsor of the Biennale Cinema 2017 featuring films, special guests and mind-boggling red carpets.

Based in Veneto, Air Dolomiti is on the front line when it comes to supporting the region's social and cultural development – values long endorsed by the airline – and it has come up with a totally unprecedented idea: to screen exclusively for their passengers, after the Venice preview, short films signed by some of the most acclaimed contemporary directors and shot to celebrate the world's oldest Film Festival.

A unique opportunity, therefore, to see original and unreleased works thanks to the Inflight Entertainment platform, an innovative Wi-Fi system covering the whole cabin. The service is free and available to all passengers, who can simply set their devices (smartphones, tablets or laptops) to flight mode before take-off and subsequently choose the Air Dolomiti Wi-Fi interface. Access is fast and simple, with no need to download an app.

Time spent on board will fly! Air Dolomiti – just make yourself comfortable and avail of the exclusive services for which the airline is renowned.
